"Over the years, Boorito has become a mainstay for Chipotle and while we can't have our usual in-person event, canceling completely was never an option for us," said Chris Brandt, Chief Marketing Officer. "This year, we've introduced a virtual Boorito to help our fans celebrate and enjoy our real food from anywhere this Halloween."

The History of Boorito

In 2000, Chipotle first celebrated Boorito with a burrito-themed costume contest at its restaurants on Halloween. For the following years, customers who showed up at Chipotle locations dressed in any costume on Halloween received discounted entrees.

Message and data rates may apply. You will receive a one-time text message from CMG Strategy Co., LLC ("Chipotle") with the Code. Limit one (1) Code per person, per mobile number, and per keyword. All purchases and redemptions are subject to availability. Taxes, gratuities, and any sides or extras are not included and are the responsibility of the Code recipient. Code must be redeemed at participating U.S. Chipotle Mexican Grill locations in-store or online during regular operating hours on October 31, 2020. Code cannot be redeemed before or after October 31, 2020.
